Bio

Alia Leonardi (b.2000) is a Belgian multi-disciplinary artist based in The Netherlands and a recent graduate from the Royal Academy of the Arts, The Hague. Her background in conflict studies pushes her to constantly explore the intersections of art and societal issues. She is currently working on performativity and social media, as well as internet culture.

Her work is essentially made of assemblage and collections of small interventions such as sculptures, textiles, objects, and images in an attempt to embody a critical approach to the topics she tackles.
